Strange, interesting, encouraging and discouraging events make up a day's news on this earth.

Two airplanes will race across the Pacific ocean.

Tomorrow Mrs. Hoover will baptize the great dirigible built for the navy at Akron, O. The dirigible will carry five airplanes, to be released with machine guns, explosive and gas bombs when needed, and is built to rise more rapidly than any airplane. Its safe helium gas will prevent fire or explosion.

The navy plans to build six submarines and spend $88,000,000 on fighting airplanes in 1933, proposing a naval moratorium for two years, meanwhile.

The airplane building is called "a sop to little navy congressmen."

There are congressmen who know that our navy should have modern ships under and above the water, submarines and aircraft, not expensive floating targets for enemy aircraft to sink. There are no "little navy congressmen."

The New York Jewish board of guardians tells this story. Private detectives, hired to protect slot machines from thieves, compelled boys, once convicted, to persuade others boys to rob the machine, letting the detectives know when the robberies would occur. The detectives arrested the boys, then tempted, sent them to jail, improving the detectives' records for vigilance.

The western grasshopper plagues recalls one of the early and gratifying Mormon miracles. In 1847 the first Mormons mournfully watched grasshoppers destroying all their crops in Salt Lake Valley.

Suddenly great flocks of seagulls appeared, ate the grasshoppers, ended the plague. Plainly heaven had sent them. Nothing so convincing had happened since the dove flew down, rested on Mohammed's shoulder, whispered in his ear. The faithful saw a message from Allah.

They did not know that the pigeon had been trained to eat dried peas from the prophet's ear.

Once in the northwest, a long way from the Pacific, a plague of field mice was destroying everything in sight, when sea gulls came over the mountains from the ocean and ate the mice.

Mr. Bailey, head of government's small mammals department, in charge of the mice, offered no miracle explanation, but admired the seagulls' intelligence.

In Vera Cruz a volcanic eruption by Mount Tanapua has men and women buried under tons of dirt.

The mountain, never before violent within memory of man, acted badly. With underground rum-blings, and with the opening of a wide fissure in the mountainside, great streams of mud and water poured in nearby houses.

That might be considered a miracle rebuking interference with the church by the Vera Cruz government, and is doubtless so interpreted by man, although the volcano did not hurt the governor responsible for driving out the clergy.

LAND WITHOUT PERMITS; JAPS THREATEN ROW

2 Yank Fliers Cause of International Complications

CAMERA IS FOUND IN THEIR PLANE

American Consul at Dairen Asks Washington For Advice

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—International complications arose today over the landing here of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., American airmen, and a flight of three United States naval aviators, over Japanese territories.

The problem created by the landing of Pangborn and Herndon during discovery of a camera in their airplane was discussed by officials of the home, foreign navy, war and communications departments of the Japanese government.

It was reported some officials favored leniency toward the American airmen, while others expressed the belief some form of punishment should be administered in view of a recent incident involving three United States navy fliers from the fleet off Chefoo.

Dairen newspapers asserted that three American navy airmen flew over the Kwantung fortifications and took photographs. The newspapers stated the American admiral offered an explanation to the Japanese consul at Tsingtau that the fliers who had been cruising, had become lost.

The Japanese, the newspaper said, did not consider the explanation sufficient, and the American consul at Dairen was reported to have asked Washington for instructions regarding the incident.

Two Sentenced To Keep Wives Happy; It's Great Success

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 7.—

Sentenced to devote themselves to their wives every evening for the next 30 days, two Gloucester men today reported the first day of the enforced "second honeymoon" a complete success.

William Harvey, 23, a rug-weaver and shortstop on the Gloucester Cubs baseball team, and John Mohr, 25, an oil worker, were given the unusual sentences yesterday for beating their wives. The latter testified their husbands never spent an evening with them or took them out.

After a ball game the Harvey's went for a walk in the park with their two-year-old son, while the Mohrs spent the evening at home.

"We were both very happy," said Mrs. Harvey. "Tonight we're going to the movies."

EAST TEXAS OIL FIELDS CLOSED

OKLAHOMA Governor Landed In

Resolution Passed by Operators; State Areas Denounced

TYLER, Texas, Aug. 7.—Oklahoma's oil shutdown movement has penetrated to the heart of the East Texas oil fields and won the endorsement of 37 of 60 operators in the area.

The 37 operators voted at a meeting here yesterday to voluntarily shut down their wells and asked that a mass meeting be held here Aug. 14, at which time the order would be officially declared.

East Texas operators offering oil to Oklahoma refiners while national guardsmen patrolled that state's producing areas were denounced. They were charged with "nullifying the efforts" of Gov. W. H. Murray, who is seeking, by martial law, to increase the price for crude from a top of 50 cents to a minimum of $1.

By resolution the operators expressed admiration for Gov. Murray and eulogized his "masterful and courageous" action in handling the oil situation in Oklahoma.

5 TRIAL FLIGHTS FOR GIANT SHIP IS NAVY'S ORDER

Akron Must Be Up for 75 Hours Before U. S. Accepts It

EXPERTS OUTLINE VARIOUS TESTS

Mrs. Herbert Hoover To Dedicate Huge "Zep" Saturday

(By Associated Press)

AKRON, O., Aug. 7.—When Mrs. Herbert Hoover christens the new dirigible Akron tomorrow, the ship will be "air born" or floated, corresponding to the launching of an ocean vessel, but the task of actual flight is expected to come in about three weeks.

Actual flight will require all the knowledge of lighter-than-air craft that has been accumulated.

It is no small task to guide a structure longer than a 50-story skyscraper and higher than an 11-story building against capricious wind currents and sudden changes in temperature.

For this reason, Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, who will be captain of the dirigible, and his officers are here busily engaged training the crew to the work of the ship.

Must Be Up 75 Hours

How well the contractor has performed the task of construction is something the navy board of inspection of five to decide. Five trial flights of the ship are planned, the last one of 48 hours duration. According to David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, the ship must be in the air at least 75 hours before the navy accepts it.

The ship must be tested for speed; it must go through altitude tests; Tests must be made upon the rapidity with which it can take on speed and slow down; her lift will be measured; interior ventilation and pressure equalization studied; fuel consumption determined, and

RULE OF PARTY IS STRESSED BY VOTE OFFICERS

Board Issues Directions for Balloting In Tuesday Primaries

The Columbiana county election board calls for enforcement of the party affiliation law in next Tuesday's primaries in drafting instructions today for the aids in eight cities and villages which will name Republican and Democratic nominees for the Nov. 3 balloting.

The instructions will be issued to the presiding judges in the 74 precincts in Salem, East Liverpool, Wellsville, East Palestine, Leetonia, Columbiana, Lisbon and Salineville and Liverpool township.

Liverpool township electors will vote on the East Liverpool municipal court clerkship, since the township is a part of the East Liverpool judicial district. In the other sub-divisions, municipal and village officers will be nominated.

Instructions Issued

"Bear in mind this is a political party primary and is as distinct as if the Republican primary were held on one day and the Democratic on another day," said Chairman J. S. Hilbert and Clerk J. W. Moore in the instructions. "If an elector asks for a ballot of the political party with which you are aware he or she has not been affiliated, you are authorized to put the said elector under oath as to which party's candidates he voted for (a majority off at the November, 1930 election, as this determines his party affiliation as concerns this primary.)"

"Should your board not be full—the required four judges and two clerks—when the polls open at 6:30 a. m., you are authorized and commanded to fill in the required number of the political party lacking, from the first voters that appear, in accordance with Section 4785-119 of the election laws. Form for qualifying such will be found in your supplies."

ROMANCE TURNS SOUR

On paper the Hoover dam looked like one of the greatest engineering romances of all time. Here was to be a Herculean labor, blocking a canyon with a mass of solid masonry taller than a 60-story building and bulkier than the great pyramid. Here was to be constructed for the workers a model city set in the color of the desert at a cool altitude. For upwards of a decade men would live there, going down every morning to work in boulder canyon, helping to make engineering history.

But as soon as the project left paper romance started to turn sour. Thousands of laborers found their way to the boulder canyon site and were turned away. Merchants intending to locate in Boulder city were unable to meet the government's requirement for the lease of land. Laborers who found employment collapsed in the intense heat, and were injured or frightened by the hazards of their jobs. They claimed that the contracting corporation controlled their sources of supplies. Resident Nevadans and other southwesterners who had hoped for commercial profit from the project were disgruntled at the federal restrictions on Boulder city.

Chronic investigators have caught the scent. They are keyed up by the baying of the professional complainers. There undoubtedly will be some attempt to engage public sympathy as a lever to change the government's policies at Hoover dam.

It is the public's cue to be respectfully inattentive of the fuss that will be made. No great construction project ever has been accomplished without untold hardship, and the Hoover dam project will be no exception. There will be accidents, suffering, injustices and death; they cannot be avoided. If they could, the capable men in charge of operations in Boulder canyon wouldn't hesitate. There is no excuse for the disgruntled to carry their fight to the country.

UNCLE SAM'S DOORMAN

Immigration troubles resemble the stories one hears about hostesses who have to hire detectives to keep unwanted people from showing up at parties. In both matters seem to have got out of hand.

Thursday, the government announced it had broken up a ring reported to have brought 100,000 aliens into the country illegally in the last decade. Aliens were willing to pay for the ring's services, even when they knew it operated illegally. The ring retaliated by murdering the alien. Everything was square, except Uncle Sam's part of the deal. He had a gang of guests who had gained admittance by fraudulent invitations.

Statistics for the fiscal year ending June 30 showed that annual immigration to this country through legal channels amounted to 97,139 immigrants. This represented a decrease of 60 per cent from the previous fiscal year. Severe curtailment of immigration, in response to pressure brought to bear at the insistence of American labor, is having a pronounced effect on legal immigration. Considered in conjunction with the number of aliens leaving the United States, voluntarily and involuntarily, it is evident that the alien movement is more outward than inward.

In this connection the overdue Wickersham report on the subject of enforcing federal laws on deporting aliens might be interesting if it were to be released. So far as is known, however, it is to be suppressed. There is a rumor current that it reveals certain abuses in administration that reflect discredit on the federal government.

In his zeal to eject unwanted guests Uncle Sam may have gone to cruel extremes, separating families, obtaining evidence under duress, holding suspected persons illegally—in short, resorting to questionable means to reach a difficult end.

Immigration is a remote subject to most individuals. Many assume that it should be stopped, and question no further. When they read that "departures exceed arrivals" they believe that a great good has been accomplished. It should not be forgotten, however, that merely retaining a burly doorman is not enough. He must be able to discriminate, in order that his efforts will bear more the appearance of kindly setting things aright than surly, high-handed and wholesale ejection.

What Others Say

DEALS THAT BLOCK JUSTICE

The waiting interest in Wickersham reports should be revived by the latest public offering of these prodigiously busy fact-finders. It is a report on the operation of the federal courts. Even as it is issued the Capone "fix" at Chicago furnishes a current and striking example of one practice it denounces. Namely, the bargaining between prisoner and prosecutor by which guilty pleas are traded for short terms.

This is the exact procedure which aroused public indignation at the conduct of the Capone case, an indignation which so far does not impress the federal department of justice.

When the consideration shown Scarface astounded the nation, the justice department made the same record either by the commissioner or the federal enforcement agencies by which possible contested cases are eliminated or prosecuted under less serious charges.

The Wickersham investigators think otherwise and are on sound ground in their emphatic denunciation of this kind of law enforcement. They find:

"Evidence of a large uncontrolled discretion, exercised off the record either by the commissioner or the federal enforcement agencies by which possible contested cases are eliminated or prosecuted under less serious charges."

Whether this practice is applied in the case of a Capone or a far humbler rodent of the underworld, the effect upon justice is deplorable. Prosecutors who, as the commission says, "use a highly selective process in choosing criminal cases for prosecution" are in great danger of far exceeding their proper power no matter how honest their motives may be.

The publicity attending the Capone case together with this Wickersham report should correct this evil. In part, it is another flower of prohibition. Liquor cases, the commission points out, have jumped so enormously that they now clog the wheels of federal justice. This is no excuse for bargain counter methods of enforcement, but it may be one of the reasons—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOTEL CLEVELAND

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Much prejudice against Paris by the tourist I believe is engendered by the local version of America's popular drink—lemonade. A lemonade in France, when ordered at a cafe, is a nauseous, gagging mixture of medicated lemon juice, served lukewarm.

Unless forewarned, it often takes several trips to learn how to get the real American drink. Here, it is a "citron-press" and they bring you the ingredients to fashion it yourself—a halved lemon, bucket of ice, squeezer, sugar, shaker and a blue bottle of seltzer.

So the next time you pop down in a sidewalk chair just chirp "Garcia, une citron-press" and you'll thank me and perhaps send a naughty post card. Of course, if you are not on the water wagon, forget all about it. In all changing Paris, the most noticeable change is in the character of its cafes.

Nearly all the solemnly sedate old places have become garish and beguiled sanctuaries. Wood panelings are supplanted by glittering mirrors and silvered trappings. Only the waiter in his long white apron and dinky black monkey coat remains as Aubrey Beardsley sketched him in the long ago.

Someone has said half of Paris sits on cafe terraces while the other half saunters by in idle curiosity. And no picture of Paris is so accurate. The cafe is the most firmly grounded institution in France—the pivotal point where centers all discussion, sympathy and sentiment.

The cafe took its name from the French word for coffee. It was unknown until coffee was introduced in Europe from Persia. The first of record was established at Marseilles in 1671. The cafe's growth in France has been remarkable and around it has been settled many political and business problems of the nation.

Camille Desmoulins launched the first cry of the birth of the revolution from the Cafe de Reg. They are pleasant havens—these French cafes yet they have spawned a national indolence retarding the country. Par example, in four weeks their lure has thrown me three weeks behind in what my friends hilariously call work.

This morning in front of one of the Capucine cafes a blonde, blue-eyed German newswoman in a milk white uniform appeared with his satchel of Berliner Tagesspiegel. It was interesting to note they sold like hot-cakes, an indication that Paris is again filled with her ancient foes. L'Echo de Paris continues to print Germany and her cities uncensored.

In the remnant of night life atop Montmartre a red-headed colored girl from Harlem—Ada Smith—is a runner up for the Parisian popularity bestowed upon Josephine Baker for so many years. Her establishment known as "Bricktop's" is as crowded as Florence's was in other days. Although Florence has passed to the beyond the establishment she founded is continued by a French syndicate.

We were treated to a typical French street scene this afternoon when a jockeying taxi sidestepped our rented automobile. The drivers true to local custom, popped from their seats and rushed at each other in a mutual and snarling exchange of vituperation. Their arms swooped in circles, they bared teeth and shadow-boxed. No blow is ever struck in such flurries for an exchange of blows means prison. A gendarme from his post watched them in a detached fashion for a few moments, finally sauntered over and all three exploded like bottles of pop. A huge crowd gathered, copious notes were taken by all, finally there was a general handshaking, an exchange of polite compliments and life effervesced again. This scene is enacted hundreds of times a day on the boulevards. It is as Parisian as chimney pots.

For several years now I have not been over to watch the hired pallbearers who congregate on the narrow sidewalk back of the famed windowless church—the Madeleine. Today I dropped around. They are still there, their solid black costumes and derbies relieved only by their white celluloid collars and hook-on white ties. For six francs a funeral, they meander through Paris streets, rain or shine, behind the dead to cemeteries. They are apparently affected by their gloomy calling, never talking but drooping in a mournful silence.

I had hoped to get out of France without running afoul of one of the complicated French hotel windows. But I met my Waterloo this evening. In trying to draw the heavy curtains my neck caught in one of the many ropes and I was turning blue when my wife heard my feeble gurgling awk.

Faulty Diet—Cause of Colds
For ever and ever the common cold has been the cause of annoyance and discomfort. In spite of numerous experiments, as yet no way has been revealed to prevent this too frequent affliction.

Now comes the statement that deficiencies in diet may be the sole cause of colds. Lack of vitamins as a result of poorly balanced diet may produce this uncomfortable ailment.

Since little has been accomplished in the way of preventing colds, this announcement will excite hope in many a breast. You and your family are sure to be greatly interested in the outcome of this new theory.

Scientific study reveals that lack of certain vitamins in the diet produces signs similar to those observed in the common cold. This is a worth-while announcement.

Though little practical information has as yet been revealed, the suggestion is of importance. It is a new approach to solving a difficult problem. Heretofore, all research in this direction has been directed along bacteriological lines and not in the field of dietetics.

It is common knowledge that a diet lacking in vitamins lowers the resistance of the body. This is adequately proved in those cases of starvation and undernourishment in which complicating diseases of great variety have occurred. Of course it does not explain why colds may be present in individuals who are not undernourished.

You may not be actually undernourished, but yet there may be lacking in your diet certain necessary vitamins. This is not likely to be the case in your food is simple and nutritious, limited largely to fruits, vegetable eggs, milk and salads.

The common cold, unlike other diseases, is not confined to any age or to any given season. It constitutes a problem that remains to be solved. Its removal from the list of familiar diseases will be a blessing to all mankind.

The Stars Say—

While the stellar mutations point to a day of highly stimulated energies and faculties, with many prospects of these being directed into gainful channels, yet there are no hints of sinister underminings, duplicity and trickery, especially in the launching of new projects or in connection with real possessions or tenancies.

If Its Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of large activity and initiative, with the energies under high stimulus to bold enterprise. But these are best by a menace of fraud, treachery and underhand methods, calling for precaution and awareness to insure prosperous issues. Personal matters are very propitiously aspected and should bring happiness and gain. A child born on this day should be active, progressive, ambitious and constructive, reaching happiness and good fortune in life with a good education and early training. The child should go far in the field of success.

Army Of Experts Mobilized To Build Monster Navy Zep

Ship Conceived by Many of the Best Known Men In Aviation

AKRON — An "army of experts" was marshalled to build the monster Navy dirigible "Akron."

Planned to be perfect in every detail, the Akron was conceived by many of the best known men in aviation; some of them pioneers and some of them guardians of the latest discoveries and achievements.

Some know aviation only from the song of the motor; some are interested only in the metal that goes into the great leviathans of the air; to others the romance of flying is dug out of hours of tedious work over microscopes and test tubes in laboratories; some are masters of the art of shipbuilding, and some are workers in iron, but nearly all were experts, well-versed in the tasks to which they were assigned.

Work on other great air crafts—the Shenandoah, the Los Angeles, the Graf Zeppelin, the R-100, even the historic old Tom Baldwin and its companions—trained them for the construction of the "Akron."

Plans The Job

A 61-year-old sailor who battled his way up to the top of Navy aeronautics was one of the men who planned the work. He is Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, and after he left South Carolina, and later Annapolis, he was a seaman for many years.

With him in engineering plans for the big ship was P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear company. A graduate of the well-known Institute of Technology in Massachusetts, he was a classmate of such men as Roger Babson, Gerard Swope of General Electric, and Alfred C. Sloan of General Motors. Big technical staffs worked under the direction of each.

With the skill required in the building of the Los Angeles at Friedrichshafen as a background, Commander Garland Fulton, chief representative of the United States Navy at that feat, headed the Navy group in the erection of the "Akron."

He is credited with developing the basic designs also for the ZRS-5.

Dr. Karl Arnstein, a pleasant, comparatively young Bohemian, who, it is said, has designed more zeppelins than all the other designers in the world, is chief of the industrial group. After planning the Los Angeles, which was his ship No. 70, he came to America, later deciding to become an American citizen.

Texas For Skipper

For skipper a Texan, 38-year-old Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, was selected. He already has taught the aviation world much about handling lighter-than-air craft.

The builder of the Shenandoah, the first of the modern ships, is Commander Jerome C. Hunsaker, vice president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation in charge of developing passenger airship service. Besides being a graduate of the Naval academy, he holds a doctor's degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Recently a customer said, "My wife wanted me to get something in blue this time—but I always please myself—so I'll take this light gray."

SHOOT WIVES, TRY SUICIDE

Husbands in Similar Cleveland Cases Wield Guns Following Quarrels

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—A quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rafael at their home here early today ended when Rafael, 38, shot and killed his 35-year-old wife, and then attempted suicide.

Doctors said he would die within a few hours.

At almost the same time as the Rafael shooting, Mrs. Mary Dery, 42, was shot and probably fatally wounded by her former husband, Burt Segel, who also turned the gun on himself. The shootings were in separate parts of the city.

Police took Segel, Mrs. Dery and Rafael to hospitals.

PLAN TO OUST CHURCH ORDERS

Parliamentary Commission Gives Measure To Spanish Assembly

MADRID, Aug. 7.—A measure incorporating into the new constitution an article expelling religious orders from Spain and confiscating their wealth will be presented to the national assembly by parliamentary commission.

The proposal would be embodied in an article dealing with the relations of church and state and would abolish the official religion as well as terminate subventions for confessional institutions.

The country has 50 Catholic orders, with a membership of 45,000 monks and nuns. The church proper, plus its various orders, owns 5,000 pieces of property officially valued at 75,000,000 pesetas (about $6,000,000). This figure excludes valuable art treasures.

When news of the commission's decision was learned great excitement resulted. A group of Communists which tried to parade through the downtown streets was charged by police and three were wounded. Their leaders were calling for a Red revolution.

Catholic circles, informed of the menace to their religion, inaugurated action which was considered likely to have the most tremendous repercussion since the anti-religious disorders in May. They are believed to be awaiting the leadership of Cardinal Vidal Y Barraquer, of Tarragona, ranking ecclesiast during the enforced absence of Cardinal Segura Y Saenz.

Atchison Loses 4 Points
In Early Trading; N. Y. Central Down

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Heaviness of the railroad shares was the chief development in the stock market today. Leading industrials moved narrowly.
Atchison lost 4 points, while Union Pacific and New Haven were down about 2, the latter to the lowest since 1927. New York Central sagged 1 1/2 to a new low, while a loss of a point in Pennsylvania carried that issue to a quotation that was last seen in 1923. Baltimore & Ohio preferred dropped nearly 2.
Miscellaneous issues off 1 to 2 included General Railway Signal, American Tobacco "B", McKeesport, American Telephone and Corn Products, U. S. Steel and American Can were steady. Case rallied a point.
Call money renewed at 1 1/2 per cent.

It may have frightened him. It is hard on the 10 buried alive.

The Lindberghs, flying into Point Barrow, will have at their disposal the only bath tub in the place.

It belongs, fortunately, to their host.

That "only one bath tub" surprises us, as our grandfathers were surprised when told that a bath tub first was to be installed in the White House.

A great majority of the grandfathers denounced the effeminate extravagance, saying that the President, like his predecessors, should be content to walk down to the Potomac, just back of the White House, if he thought a bath necessary.

James Goodwin Hall of the anti-prohibition "crusaders" flies for amusement, continues to break records, and has just made the round trip from New York to Chicago and back in 9 hours, 56 minutes, beating the time of the crack flier Hawks from Chicago to New York by 2 minutes. Hawks will remedy that, probably.

Railroad men of intelligence, knowing that the flying machine soon will be safer than the train, and contemplating a five-hour trip to Chicago, will do some hard thinking. Other hard thinking will be done by sincere prohibitionists, amazed that a man should fly so fast and not on ice water.

Airplanes, driven by oil-burning engines, will take passengers from Chicago to New York for $5 in 15 hours, and from New York to Seattle for $10 in 15 hours and less. Write that on your tablets.

The Republic steel corporation's salaried employees at Youngstown, O., started work yesterday under a wage reduction of 16 2/3 per cent. They will work only five days a week, at the old rate per day. Other workers are not affected. Such cuts remind the man with the white collar that there is virtue in unions when hard times come, but even unions may have to choose between wage reductions and a shut-down.

President Green of the American federation of labor predicts disorder if the depression lasts and wants government and industry to prevent it. It is dangerous to predict disorder for predictions sometimes promote realization.

Mr. Green's idea, however, may be to give capital a "little scare," to promote action.

Nothing is as timid as "big money." It is more timid than a pink-eyed white rabbit faced by a roaring lion.

"Big money" says: "Think of us lending out millions at half of 1 per cent a year interest. Why waste your sympathy on the man without a job?"

Coast guard officers here had not heard from the Northland since early yesterday and feared it had not made any further progress in the journey to Point Barrow with fuel for the Lindbergh plane and supplies for the residents. 5 TRIAL FLIGHTS FOR GIANT SHIP

Internal strains and deflections observed.

The ship is operated more like a submarine or ocean liner than an airplane, according to Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley, second officer in command of the Akron, and former skipper of the Los Angeles. The control car is forward, protruding from the under surface of the hull.

"In the front of the control car is the wheel which controls the vertical fins or the rudders," the officer explained, "and right in front is the compass."

"An enlisted man has the wheel, and he steers the ship very much like you would a surface ship. In ordinary straightway flying he just holds the ship on a compass course."

"At the left in the control car is another wheel governing altitude. Another enlisted man stands at this, and the officer of the deck, one of the watch officers, is also in the cabin."

"The altitude man has the real job. He has to be good, for he has to coordinate so many things. He has his instruments to tell him if the ship is rising or falling; he has his sense of feel and by day he usually has the horizon to guide him. The direction man usually is a seaman or a third-class petty officer, but the altitude man is a first class or chief petty officer."

"Now when the skipper gives an order to hold the ship at 3,000 feet the altitude man has to do it. The ship has to be held on an even keel."

"When you realize that an inclination of a bare 8 degrees means a 20-ton lift you see that the altitude man has to keep his head up."

Other officers include the navigation officer to calculate the ship's course; the keel officer in charge of gas cells and ballast to keep her in trim; the engineer officer in charge of the eight engines.

Orders are transmitted through a telephone system with 18 instruments connected through a switchboard. If the forward control room is put out of commission, the aft compartment may be used.

If Successful In the Nomination and Election

I will appoint to office only those whom I really and sincerely believe are qualified for the position. They will be directly under my supervision and I will demand 100% cooperation. There will not be any partiality shown by the service department in regard to work being done in the city. Every one will be treated fair and equal. I have not made any promises to any individual, or group of individuals, as to whom I shall appoint to any city position.

The traffic laws of the city will be enforced, fairly and fearlessly, regardless of who the offender may be. The ordinance prohibiting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks of the city will be enforced. Double parking on State Street will be eliminated. I shall request the Board of Education to dismiss the High School ten minutes before twelve, to eliminate traffic and congestion on State Street and Lincoln Ave., due to the fact the traffic from the factories is very heavy at this hour.

I will do my utmost to improve and beautify Centennial Park. The present administration points with pride to the improvements they have made to the waterworks buildings and its surroundings. I heartily agree, they have made considerable improvement and also spent a great sum of money. I sincerely believe this money could have been more judiciously spent for improvements to Centennial Park. Improvements that each and every one of us could enjoy. I believe one of the greatest needs for the young people of Salem today, is a clean, sanitary, safely-supervised outdoor bathing pool, and Centennial Park would be the ideal place for it.

The expenditure of any large sum of money should be voted on by the people, after its officers have given a complete, itemized statement of all the facts in connection with it. The taxpayers and voters should have the last word. I will work at all times toward reducing our bonded indebtedness. I believe the city should live within its means and not enter into a project, when we absolutely know at the time, we do not have the required money to complete it.

I favor the enforcement of all laws at all times. Having been born and lived in Salem my entire life, I feel I know the kind of an administration the majority of citizens desire. I shall allow good, common, unbiased judgment rule my decisions at all times. Prejudice, race, color, or creed shall never sway me in my rulings. A fair, square, honest, efficient business administration for the people of Salem at all times.

TELL OF DEATH OF ERIC BAUM

Kanka Boys Bring Back Strange Story To Dutch Outpost

(By Associated Press)
DOREY, NEW GUINEA, Aug. 7.—Three naked, emaciated Kanaka boys, plunging breathless and exhausted into a Dutch outpost near here, have brought a strange tale of the death of Eric Baum, former officer in the German Imperial army.

Baum went "bush" during the war shortly after Australian troops arrived in New Guinea. It is told, and wandered for years in the mountains of the island, clad only in a ragged piece of cloth, barefooted, living as best he could, picking up native dialects—and always searching for gold.

Finds Gold
He found gold near Surprise Creek, a tributary of the Watut river, and might have taken some of it back to civilization with him had he not run afoul of the dreaded Cooka-Cookas, the only truly nomadic tribe of New Guinea.

Pierce, intractable and treacherous, the Cooka-Cookas raid in the dead of night, traveling over the roughest country in order to surprise their victims. They are sometimes compared with the pathe-men of West Africa.

Baum, the Kanaka boys related, appeared to think that his knowledge of the natives and their language would enable him to control them. He settled down with 12 Kanaka carriers to work his vein of gold quartz and induced the Cooka-Cookas to bring them food every day—for regular rates of pay.

Baum Protests
After a while the bags of yams became lighter and lighter. Baum protested in vain, and at length when an almost empty bag was brought him he ordered the natives to take it away.

Instantly the Cooka-Cookas rushed upon him and killed him, afterwards performing a wild ceremonial dance. They attacked the 12 Kanaka boys and killed nine of them.

The other three, by means of the most skillful bushcraft, managed to elude their pursuers and bring back the grim story of Baum's end.

"BIG BUSINESS GIRL"

At The State
"Big Business Girl" with Loretta Young in the title role is today's feature at the State theater.

Miss Young plays the captivating heroine, Mac, a college girl, who is undecided between her love for young Johnnie Saunders, leader of the University orchestra, and an unquenchable desire to win a career for herself in the world of big business. John sails to Paris with his orchestra for the summer, after finding himself unable to dissuade her from her ambition. Mac goes to New York and after discouraging weeks lands a job in an advertising agency, not on her merits, but because Clayton, the big boss, likes her.

John unexpectedly returns from Paris to be with Mac, whom he has clandestinely married. They quarrel and part. There is an unexpected climax.

Ricardo Cortez, Joan Blondell and Frank Albertson play leading supporting roles.

"THE HOLY TERROR"

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Cooling Soups
Of cold soups there are three varieties, and they may be appetizing or the major part of lunch—depending on the temperature and one's state of mind toward food.

Cold soups, cold, are the most popular, and they have some food value. Then here are the varieties: fruit soups—slightly sweet, but refreshing. And for those who have developed a taste for it, there is something like some of the cold vegetable soups topped up with dabs of thick, sour cream.

Jellied Tomato Soup
2 cups tomato pulp and juice
2 cups celery
1 onion
1 tablespoon parsley
1 green pepper
2 bay leaves
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons gelatin.
Cook together either fresh or canned tomatoes with other ingredients, except gelatin which should be soaked in half cup of cold water. After simmering for 20 minutes, strain, and while hot add the softened gelatin. Stir, and pour into bouillon cups.

Veal or chicken stock may be jellied by adding the gelatin—about one tablespoon of powdered gelatin for each two cups of liquid. A dash of lemon juice improves the flavor of any jellied soup.

Cold Tomato Soup
Cook fresh or canned tomatoes as above, then strain, but do not add gelatin. Set the liquid in the ice box to get cold and serve as cold as possible. A tablespoon of thick sour cream may be added to each serving, or one or two small cold boiled potatoes, or a few slices of hard-cooked egg.

Sorrel, sour grass or sorrel are edible; this may be made the basis of a delicious cold soup. The grasses have natural sourness and are very refreshing.

Sorrel Soup
1 pound sorrel
1 quart of water
1 teaspoon of salt
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon sugar
well beaten eggs
1 cup thick sour cream
The sorrel must be stripped from the sorrel and the leaves cut up. The stems are tied up in a bunch and cooked with the chopped leaves in one quart of boiling water. After 20 minutes of simmering, remove the stems and throw away, but the cooked leaves may remain in the liquid. Then add salt and remove from stove. Pour the liquid over the beaten eggs and continue beating until there is a smooth mixture. Set aside to chill. Serve with a few spoonfuls of sour cream in each plate.

Operator of Toledo Night Club Killed

TOLEDO, Aug. 7.—Charles S. (Chet) Marks, 38, night club operator was shot three times when he walked into an ambush laid by a trio of gunmen back of his home here early today. Marks, who carried $1,500 in his pockets when attacked, may die.

The shooting took place after Marks knocked one of his attackers down and while his wife stood in the breakfast room which she had entered to turn on lights. The couple had just returned home after an evening spent at Lakeside, Mich. The wife entered the house while her husband put the automobile in the garage. The bandits, who apparently were hiding for their victim fired three bullets into the body of Marks. The wounded man is in a critical condition at a hospital.

PAL OF BURKE HURT IN CRASH

Gus Winkler, Badly Injured, Prisoner In Michigan Hospital

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., Aug. 7.—Gus Winkler, pal of Fred Burke, notorious killer, and member of a gang accused of many killings, bank robberies and kidnappings, in mid-western states, was a prisoner in a hospital today, badly injured.

Winkler came to grief in the same community in which Burke was sentenced. His car overturned on a highway near here last Wednesday. Winkler's skull was fractured, and a companion, identified by cards in his pockets as John B. Moran, suspected of an airplane theft in St. Louis, suffered a broken jaw. Efforts to link Moran, who gave the name of John Glyatts, of Mobile, Ala., with the Burke-Winkler gang were being made. He is also under guard at the hospital.

Burke was captured a few months ago near St. Joseph, Mo., and was sentenced to life imprisonment for slaying Patrolman Charles Skelly of St. Joseph, when the officer sought to arrest him for a minor traffic accident.

Winkler, whose gang is accused of obtaining bank robbery loot and ransom money totalling several million dollars, was identified, Sheriff Fred J. Cutler said, as a result of a ruse. Winkler had given the name of Herry Kral, an airplane pilot, of Chicago. But the sheriff said he got the impression from a photograph that "Kral" was Winkler and told the injured man it was useless for him to do any bluffing as his finger prints had been identified. The bluff worked. Winkler admitted his identity.

Water-Logged Torso Is Found on Beach

WANTAGH, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The finding of a water-logged torso on Jones beach, Long Island, started state troopers and Nassau county detectives on an intense investigation today, to determine if the body might be that of Joseph Force Crater, missing New York supreme court justice.

The body, minus its head, arms and one leg, was found last night, hours after thousands of bathers had departed for the day. It had been washed ashore. There were wire marks about the chest.

Medical Examiner Reed and Police Inspector Harold King, who examined the body, said the head and limbs had been chopped or sawed off. The body had been in the water about a year, Dr. Reed estimated. Justice Crater disappeared a year ago yesterday.

Dr. Reed said the man was about six feet tall and weighed about 180 pounds. Justice Crater fitted that description.

WIVES PROTEST MINING ARRESTS

Mothers, Children Parade 10 Miles, But Fail To See Judge

(By Associated Press)
PHILIPPI, W. VA., Aug. 7.—Back to their dismal homes, nearly 400 wives and children of striking bituminous coal miners made their way today, while their protest against the imprisonment of a score of mine pickets echoed through the hills of West Virginia.

Many trudged the 10 miles to the Galloway settlement on foot, through the withering heat; others rode motor trucks, and not a few added dilapidated horse-drawn vehicles to the caravan.

Their mission here was to plead for food and to interview the Barbour county jurist who recently granted an injunction prohibiting picketing of the mines. A score of men were jailed a few days ago for alleged violating that writ.

The judge was absent, but the women and children were assured by county officials and townfolk that everything possible would be done to relieve their destitution. A meeting was planned here today.

THE DAY In Sports

HUNDREDS ATTEND GAMES
SOFTBALL GAME POPULAR
C. SCULLION TOPS HITTERS

WITH AVERAGE ATTENDANCE at Salem Softball league games estimated at 750 for the past two weeks, spectators gathering at Centennial park field are expected to pass the 1,000 mark as the race for the league championship becomes more intense than any in the city's history. Several times in the past week when leaders clashed in important games attendance approached 1,000 and there is every indication that this total will be exceeded soon.

Next week's games mark the close of the first round of the second half, the final round being scheduled to get under way on Monday, Aug. 17. The schedule of the first round will be repeated in plans announced today by J. M. Kelley, league director.

FOUR TEAMS, the Salem China, Mullins Foremen's club, Salem Hardware and Ohio Edison are leaders in the fight for the title and there is every possibility that they will continue to top the first division in the closing round. Other threats include the United Cigars, the Kiwanis club and Colonial Billiards with the Tobies holding a slight edge on the other duo.

The Cigars boast one of the league's leading twirlers in Eddie Miller but are weak on defense, errors losing at least three of the team's games this half. The same situation applies to the Billiards and Kiwanians but the latter team with the circuit's leading hitsmiths can still do plenty of damage despite its weak defense.

Despite the Pottery's great comeback this half, fans figure the Hardware and Mullins as leading contenders for the second half crown. The latter, however, has dropped considerably in ranking by fandom while the Hardware after two consecutive defeats, has taken five straight decisions to climb into third place and looks powerful.

THE KIWANIS are far in the lead as far as team batting is concerned but also rate as one of the league's three poorest fielding aggregations. The other two weaklings on defense are the Billiards, dubbed the Freebooters but erratic performances, and Cox Studios. The Studios, together with the American Laundry and Dry Cleaning company and John Brown's Community Service Station are considered practically eliminated from the race.

Batting performances of Cecil Scullion, Joe Kelley and Mike Schuller, three of the circuit's "big boys" in hitting, bring the Kiwanis team into first place in clubbing. Scullion, up until yesterday's games had a .444 average, Kelley .421 and Schuller .406.

SOMEONE, dubbing himself as "A regular fan," has gotten the jump on the bugs that like to select all-star teams. This one, however, certain that Mullins will again win the title, suggests the selection of a team from other aggregations in the league to oppose Mullins in a post-season series.

Here's the team:
PITCHERS—Early (Hardware); Christen, (Ohio Edison);
CATCHERS—M. Schuller, (Kiwanis);
FIRST BASE—Scott, (Billiards);
SECOND BASE—Kelley, (Kiwanis);
THIRD BASE—P. Scullion (Pottery);
SHORT STOPS—M. Sartick and T. Seeds;
OUTFIELD—C. Scullion (Kiwanis); C. Sidinger and E. Sidinger (Billiards) and Miller (Hardware).

It looked like "old home week" in Salem for the past few days. First Frank "Hink" Spencer came strolling into town, to be followed by "Bus" Hanna, then Frank Hanna, his brother. Abel "Abe" Miller's been in the city for quite a spell. Roscoe Culbertson's eccacology is official headquarters for the reunions.

REACH SEMI-FINALS In Horseshoe Meet

LAKEVIEW, O., Aug. 7—The semi-final round of the State Horseshoe tournament began here today with Bert Duryee of Cleveland, defending champion, in the lead. Duryee defeated each of the 12 other finalists in the first round finals yesterday. Final play for the championship will be tomorrow.

At the start of today's play, Harry Collins, of Toledo, former titleholder, was in second place with 10 wins and two defeats. Others near the top were W. P. Yocum, Zanesville; Hamley Wheeler, Canton; James Cash, Cleveland; Marion Shadley, Sabina; and Jesse Spiller, Union.

CHRISTEN HURLS POWER COMBINE TO 10-0 VICTORY

Star Pitcher Registers 2nd Straight Shutout; Kiwanians Win

HARDWARE OUTFIT DROPS 7-6 BATTLE

Clubmen Take Advantage Of Nine Errors To Annex Verdict

The Mullins Foremen's club was back in first place in the Salem Softball league today, holding a fractional one-half game margin over the Salem China company mushballers, former league-leaders who Thursday succumbed to the Ohio Edison Power & Light Co. team, 10-0.

Christen Hurls Shutout
The power combine, with Lee Christen on the pitching mound, outclassed the Pottery outfit all the way, chasing Arthur Shinn from the slab after which they continued their batting attack at the expense of Harry Vincent. The Pottery obtained only three hits off Christen, it being the Ohio Edison's second straight shutout victory.

The defeat shoved the china-makers into second place in the league while the Ohio Edison and Salem Hardware, tied for third honors, are just a half game behind.

The Salem Hardware lost its big chance to advance up into top ranking in the league, suffering a hope upsetting 7-6 defeat from the Kiwanis club yesterday.

Kelley Hits Homer
Two errors by Patsy Konnett and erratic work among the infield contributed five runs to the Kiwanians' cause in the first two innings. Joe Kelley's home run with one on in the first was a big factor in his team's victory.

Second division clubs battle in today's games at Centennial park. The Community Service Station opposes the Colonial Billiards in the opener at 5:45 while at 6:45 the Cox Studios meet the American Laundry.

ILL HEALTH MAY HALT CAREER OF U.S. TENNIS STAR

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 7—Ill health is dogging the footsteps of 19-year-old Ellsworth Vines, Jr., of Pasadena, Cal., winner of the Longwood Bowl and Seabright invitation tennis tournaments and picked by some experts as the next national champion.

Vines, it was revealed, is suffering from a stomach ailment and has been advised to consult a specialist.

On several occasions during the past month while playing in important eastern tournaments, the tall Pasadena star has been taken violently ill either before or after a match. These attacks have become so frequent that Vines announced he will not participate in the eastern turf court championship next week.

Vines, who twice this season has conquered the national champion, John Hope Doeg, has reached the semi-finals of both singles and doubles in the Meadow Brook tournament. Today he meets George Lott of Philadelphia. The other semi-final brought together Cliff Sutter of New Orleans and Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, N. J., who beat Doeg in the quarter-finals.

YANKEES START FIGHT TO WIN LEAGUE TITLE

New York Still Hopes To Nose Out Athletics; Win 5-3 Tilt

(By Associated Press)

Prospects for development of an exciting pennant race look very slim when a "crucial" series starts with the challenging team fifteen games behind the league leader.

Yank's Start Fight
The Yankees started what appears to be their final challenge yesterday in the opener of a three-game series with the A's. Figuring that if they could win all three they might have a chance to overhaul the leaders, the Yankees went out to win, and they staggered through to a 5 to 3 victory which left them only 14 games behind.

The Yanks jumped on Rube Walberg in the first inning, bouncing three hits with as many walks for four runs. But they could not score again until the fifth, when Babe Ruth dropped his thirtieth homer of the year into the right field bleachers.

Washington, meanwhile, had an easy time defeating the Boston Red Sox, 15 to 1, to retain its place three games ahead of the Yanks and eleven behind the Athletics.

Indians Trim Tigers
The rest of the American league teams, which range from 25½ to 37½ games behind first place, continue to fight in a lively manner among themselves. The fourth place Cleveland Indians came through to a 4 to 3 triumph over the tail-end Detroit Tigers when Vic Sorrell successor to Art Herring, walked four men in the ninth inning and forced in the winning run. Chicago took a 7 to 6 decision from the St. Louis Browns on the strength of a seventh inning rally for four runs.

With the first two teams in the National league idle, the New York Giants lost a good chance to gain when they allowed the Phillies to take a 6 to 4 decision. Each team made 13 hits.

Brooklyn's Robins were more successful, landing on Ben Cantwell for four runs in the first inning and holding that margin to defeat the Boston Braves 7 to 3.

After going seven games without a win and taking four shutout defeats from the Pittsburgh Pirates in the course of the losing streak, the Cincinnati Reds finally came through with three runs of Glenn Spencer in the eighth inning of yesterday's clash with the Buccaneers and won by a 3 to 2 count.

Jolley Sets Mark As Pinch Hitter

CHICAGO, Aug. 7—Smead Jolley, who has been unable to play regularly for the White Sox because of injuries, is compiling a remarkable pinch-hitting record.

In his last six appearances as a pinch-batsman, Jolley has hit safely five times, his collection including a home run, three doubles and a single.

SEALER TO GET FEES FOR TESTS

Charges To Be Made For Testing Scales And Measures

LISBON, Aug. 7.—Testing and sealing weights and measures will hereafter cost the owners of scales and measures a fee of from five to 25 cents, according to an opinion just handed down by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman. No charge has been made in the past for this service.

The bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, Columbus, of which A. B. Peckinbaugh is deputy supervisor, has informed County Auditor J. H. Irwin that this charge shall be made for the sealing of weights and measures.

Hereafter it will cost 10 cents each for the testing and sealing of beam, computing, counter, wagon and platform scales and wheel load weights.

Weights, liquid and dry measures of less than one gallon, milk bottles, oil bottles used as measures, berry boxes, fruit baskets, when used as measures, oil and grease pumps will cost five cents each for testing and sealing.

It will also cost 10 cents to have liquid and dry measures of one gallon or more tested, also gasoline pumps, vehicle tanks, taximeters, rules, tapes, or any linear measure at the rate per yard. However, no charge is to be made for the testing of the names of those who fail to pay this charge are to be certified to the prosecuting attorney for collection.

NEW LICENSES FOR CIGARETS

Treasurer's Certificate to Be Replaced By That Of Auditor

LISBON, Aug. 7.—Wholesale and retail cigarette dealers will be required to surrender the present treasurer's license certificate to County Auditor J. H. Irwin by Aug. 15, it was made known today. These certificates are to be replaced by what will be known as an "auditor's certificate," and the issuing of the new certificate is to comply with the provisions of the new cigarette law which becomes operative soon.

The new certificates have been ordered, and the new stock is expected to be received at the auditor's office late this week. Cigarette dealers will be asked by Auditor Irwin to mail to him the license certificates obtained recently, and the new license certificates will be immediately issued.

County Treasurer Fred George, from whose office cigarette excise tax stamps will be issued, expects to receive his supply of "revenue" stamps before Sept. 1, when the new excise tax law becomes effective. The treasurer's office has been informed that 200,000,000 stamps have been ordered and the first 20,000,000 shipment will be available for distribution later in the month. These stamps cost the state $57.50 per million. The retail cigarette dealer will be required to purchase a stock of these stamps, then place a stamp upon each package of cigarettes and then collect the tax he has paid when a sale is made.

WHY TAKE PILLS?

THERE'S no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Amine, Kennebunk, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deeply sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Congratulations!

WASHINGTON—Tell W. Nicolet, landscape architect and engineer, has been congratulated by President Hoover. The occasion was Mr. Nicolet's joining the American Legion. He was the millionth member. Since he joined on June 8 more than 26,000 others have become Legionnaires.

Too Fat
BERGEN, NORWAY — No-body loves a fat man, especially in a submarine. The Nautilus has departed toward the North Pole with a Norwegian boat, leaving the American cook on the dock. They told him he was getting too fat for his own safety if the crew had to take to the ice.

Too "Hot"
SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA — Some new jazz talent has been discovered. A group of aborigines made quite a hit when they sang tribal war songs. But when they launched into the latest jazz numbers, the audience refused to let them stop until the singers were exhausted.

Real Bargain
WASHINGTON—N. N. Wallack bought 30 old magazines at a book auction for one dollar. Before he left the place, a parchment dated April 11, 1803, and bearing the signatures of Thomas Jefferson, president and James Madison, secretary of state, fell out of the periodicals. The auctioneer wanted to buy it back for $100. The document was a land grant of 1,000 acres in Ohio to Captain Larkin Smith, a Revolutionary officer.

She Sat Out Every Dance That Evening

The party at the Wilsons' was a flop for Jane. She was a newcomer in town and this was her first party since her arrival. Naturally, all the men were anxious to meet her, for she was good looking, vivacious and certainly knew how to dress. Her manner was as charming as her appearance. The men crowded around her to the envy of the other girls.

But at each request to dance, she refused as gracefully as possible. Repeated rebuffs soon discouraged the men. She finished the evening almost alone—the prettiest girl there, but a wall flower.

The reason was one which is all too common—which is causing many girls to miss a lot of good times—excessive perspiration under the arms, on the hands or on the feet, causing unpleasant odors. Jane need not have foregone the dancing—no one need nowadays.

FAVORS OPENING OF 'BEER CLUBS'

East Liverpool Candidate Suggests Sale at "Reputable Places"

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 7. — James C. Beatty, pottery jobber, backing the Republican majority nomination in a 10 cornered fight at the primary election here next Tuesday, declared in favor of the sale of beer by reputable clubs, demanded a reduction in telephone rates and opposed expenditure of public funds for a building to replace a 54-year city hall in a campaign address here tonight.

Beatty, who recently renounced affiliation with the Democratic party, also pledged "an increase in the city's population from 23,349 to 100,000 within 10 years by bringing diversified industries into the city," and promised the appointment of a woman on each municipal commission and board.

"I am not opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, but I believe the Volstead act should be repealed," he declared. "I favor the sale of beer, but not liquor, by reputable clubs as a means of solving the prohibition problem."

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Some Potato Salads
A bowl of potato salad in the ice-box can be a great aid to a quick luncheon on a warm day.
However, it should not be so large a quantity that it will be a hangover —two to three days is about the limit.

Some green vegetables should always be added to potato salad, to detract from its meanness. Chopped celery, chopped sweet peppers, finely shredded cabbage, chopped scallions (in moderation), or watercress mixed in at the last minute are all good blends.

Potatoes are cooked with their jackets, and peeled while hot, but are allowed to cool before slicing.
If they are cut up hot the result is likely to be a bit untidy.

Cream Potato Salad
8 potatoes.
1 bunch celery.

1 onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
1 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon pepper.
2 cups mayonnaise.
1 cup whipped cream.
3 hard-cooked eggs.

While potatoes are boiling, chop celery, eggwhites, parsley, and rub the yolks of eggs through a coarse sieve. Peel potatoes when tender, set aside to cool. Mix salad dressing with chopped vegetable mixture, onion juice and whipped cream and add to diced potatoes. Mound on a bed of lettuce, garnished with eggyolks.

If a thinner sauce is preferred, then one cup of mayonnaise may be mixed with one cup of French dressing instead of the whipped cream and mayonnaise.

Cucumbers or dill pickles may be chopped up and added to the dressing. If fresh green dill is available, a few sprigs chopped up and added instead of parsley is a more pungent flavor.

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

Sally Rutherford, the last member of an old southern family, lived with her grandparents at Oakleigh plantation, the heart of the Rutherford family pride. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Samuel Winstead is the only son and heir of his father, Henry Winstead, town banker. Henry had hoped his son would go into finance, but Sam prefers to be an agriculturist and have a model dairy farm.

The night of Sally's graduation she receives the news of her grandfather's death. The shock caused her grandmother to have a stroke.

INSTALLMENT 4 A GALLANT SPIRIT

Sally bathed her face, put on a fresh dress, and went downstairs. Moses had a tempting little lunch arranged for her in the darkened dining room, and she mechanically and drank her hot tea, the while he hovered around her silently. She sought Mr. Sinclair in the library.

The lawyer was sitting before grandpapa's desk, stacks of papers piled neatly before him. The room shared with the rest of the house that still, chill atmosphere, charged with the presence of death. Even the sunlight permeated with it. A dreadful conscious hush hung over Oakleigh.

"I hardly know how to tell you, Sally," began Mr. Sinclair, a tall, thin man with a long, pale face, kind brown eyes, just now full of distress. "It is a very painful duty. To begin with—your grandfather's affairs are in a most involved state. I never imagined anything so bad as this—"

The old lawyer suddenly covered his face with his thin hands. "How could poor Rupert have been so foolish?" he cried. "He was warned. Why didn't he listen to reason? O, my God; how am I to tell this poor child the truth?"

"Were things so hard for him, Mr. Sinclair? And to think of me, heedlessly enjoying myself!" cried Sally, remorsefully.

Mr. Sinclair lifted his gray head and regarded her mournfully. "Things were so bad for him that he was ruined. Everything, everything. Nothing left him—but disaster. He was swept clean. Oakleigh mortgaged to the roof." He spread out his hands helplessly. "He told me nothing. He hid the truth from me—until it was too late. He groaned."

"O, poor grandpapa! And it killed him!" exclaimed Sally. For very pity unaccustomed tears flooded her eyes. "And I'm partly to blame, Mr. Sinclair. I'm sure it was on account of me he made those investments. Because of me he wasn't satisfied with what he had. He always said the last Rutherford must have plenty of money; that Oakleigh and just enough to live on decently wasn't enough for me. I didn't pay very much attention for I thought he had so much. What more could I ask for than I already had? I'm going to him now, Mr. Sinclair, please. I want to tell him how much he really gave me, how much I have, how much I love and honor him." She wept.

"Sally—Sally! He had risen from his chair, pallid, trembling. "My dear little girl—I've known you from your babyhood, Sally. For the love Rupert bore you—and he loved you Sally, better than anything on earth—for the love of God, don't go in and look at him!"

"I don't understand. Something menacing, a smothering horror, a frightful presence, approached. And as it were, clutched her shrinking shoulder with a ghastly hand. She got to her feet and started across the room. He caught her before she could open the door and held her back.

"Your grandmother heard the shot and the fall and ran to the sound. She saw him. Mercifully, the stroke fell upon her even as she screamed. Sally, my dear little girl, my poor child, when Rupert saw me was facing ruin—that everything was gone—he shot himself. He wouldn't tell her. He blew his brains out!"

Sally reeled, but again she did not scream. She mustn't be so frightened—she mustn't. Only let her get free of this smothering blackness. For the time being she couldn't comprehend. What could any disaster mean to her except as it touched him personally? Except as it swept away his beloved and beautiful presence, closed his kind eyes, silenced his handsome lips?

"I must see him," she insisted agonizedly.

Unwillingly he led her to the closed room and himself raised the coffin lid and let her look on the poor, shattered, bandaged thing that had once manifested as the handsome, courtly, honored, envied Rupert Rutherford.

"O, poor darling! And this is what has come to you!" whispered Sally, touching his folded hands gently. And she wept for him, never thinking of herself. She had never before been called upon to weep for a Rutherford, and it was a bitter experience. It bewildered her that this terrible thing could befall grandpapa and the sky not fall, the world come to ruinous end. It made her panic that the sun went on shining unconcernedly, quite as though nothing had happened.

"Darling, darling grandpapa, don't you worry about me. I'm young. I'm strong. I can work. I promise you I'll take care of grandmamma for you. I'll carry on. I'll do the best I can always."

From all over the state letters and telegrams of condolence and sympathy poured in. Mounds of flowers and an endless line of cars from the city, from all the county

"Can a Winstead take Oakleigh away from the Rutherford?"

streamed up the great oak avenue. People felt a sort of consternation—the colonel had always appeared to be the very button on Fortunes cap, and now this ghastly ending of an honorable career.

After the colonel had been laid away in the family vault under the trees of Oakleigh, in the presence of a vast concourse of people who were deeply stirred by the tragedy of his passing, and the house was at least free of guests, Sally held another interview with Mr. Sinclair.

"My nerves are quite steady and my head is clear again, Mr. Sinclair. I have heard the worst news I shall ever hear, so nothing you can tell me now will overwhelm me," she said composedly. "Now, to begin with, grandpapa would expect me to take care of grandmamma. I am going to do so. I must do so. I want you to tell me exactly how our affairs stand, so I shall know how to begin."

"You are a brave child, Sally, and stricken, so startled, that the lawyer could have wept.

"The interest is paid up for the past six months—it is due every half year." He did not tell her that several members of the bar, friends had paid the amount among them though it was more than some of them could afford; that they had paid for the colonel's funeral, and set aside, in addition, a small sum to run the household for the time being, and that he himself was paying the servants out of his own pocket. It was the last thing he could do for Rupert.

"After this there is nothing to pay it with—there are other debts by sides, so there must presently be a foreclosure. I have spoken to Mr. Winstead, the holder of the mortgage, and I find him very sympathetic and kindly. He reminded me he had ventured to advise the colonel—had actually warned him—but Rupert wouldn't listen. He was too sure he had a fortune in his grasp."

"How much did grandpapa borrow from him?"

"Approximately about forty thousand dollars. There was also money raised on his life insurance," he added, vehemently. "It is unbelievable."

"And the interest?"

"You would have to meet somewhat more than three thousand dollars a year—with nothing to meet it with. My child, you must resign yourself to let the place go."

"Mr. Winstead knew that those weren't safe investments, even while he loaned poor grandpapa the money, didn't he?"

"He warned your grandfather not to make them, Sally."

"But he loaned him the money to do so, Mr. Sinclair, because he knew it was the easiest way—the only way—for him to get Oakleigh."

"Somebody must have gotten it sooner or later, my dear. If anybody else had loaned Rupert even half so much as he got from Henry a good child," he said gently. "I wish to heaven I had better news for you—you deserve it. But I can't tell you how to begin the task you have set for yourself. The fact is, dear girl, there isn't anything to begin with."

"Everything is gone, Mr. Sinclair?"

"Everything," said he, with a hopeless gesture.

"Isn't there any hope of salvaging something—enough for poor grandmamma, at least?"

"The question is," said he miserably, in a low voice, "whether both of you won't have to leave Oakleigh."

She clasped her hands mutely. The place was heavily mortgaged—she knew that much. But that wasn't so fatal, was it? Didn't people manage to keep mortgaged homes? Not keep Oakleigh? But that was home. The Rutherford had always kept Oakleigh. Oakleigh was part of Rutherford religion. She looked so young, so Winstead the result would have been the same in the long run. Rupert couldn't resist gambling. Oakleigh would have had to go."

"Do you mean," Sally faltered, half rising from her chair, "that Mr. Winstead can take Oakleigh away from us? But, Mr. Sinclair, this is grandpapa's home! It's ours. It has always been ours. Can a Winstead take Oakleigh away from the Rutherfords, Mr. Sinclair?" She looked horrified, indignant, unbelieving.
